ORGANIC, SUSTAINABLE & BIODYNAMIC WINES

Some Definitions:

Biodynamic Wine

(Not yet a legally defined term.) Wine made from grapes grown organically and according to Biodynamic principles created by Rudolf Steiner, including the use of herbal compost additives and plant treatments, practiced in conjunction with planetary movements. (May contain added sulfites.)

Organic Wine

Wine made from grapes grown by organic methods, by a certified organic vineyard. Processed without synthetic chemicals, under 100 parts per million added sulfites allowed to prevent oxidation. This is under the amount of added sulfites commonly found in conventional wine.

Many wines that are made using organically grown grapes do not state it on the label, particularly small family-run estates in many countries of Europe. Some of these winemakers have grown grapes for several generations and have simply never used pesticides or herbicides; neither have they gone through the certification process.
